Diane Taylor's Bio:

Diane Taylor is an inspirational speaker, coach, facilitator, and blogger. Her passion is to help people consciously create lives their hearts are longing to live.

After spending 20 years in the corporate world as a Human Resources Professional she made the leap to becoming an entrepreneur and started Glow Leadership Incorporated. She now has the privilege of doing what she does best – coaching people to take back their power and create juicy abundant lives based in contribution and connection.

Diane's career has provided rich and diverse experiences as she has worked in the non-profit, automotive, retail and high tech industries. In addition to a Bachelor of Arts in Women's Studies, she is a Certified Human Resources Professional and a CEVEY Business Leadership Coach. She has worked in organizations from 50-30,000 employees.

Prior to joining the corporate world, Diane had an opportunity to travel as the first Canadian Chapter Consultant for Alpha Omicron Pi Women's Fraternity. Working with college students and faculty advisors on post-secondary campuses across North America is where Diane developed her passion for inspiring others to be their best. Some of the campuses she visited include Western Ontario University, University of Chicago, University of Florida and Duke.

Before leaving the corporate world she had the privilege of leading an exceptional team of fifteen Human Resources professionals in the four western provinces for one of Canada's largest retail companies. In 2012 she was nominated by her team and selected as one of the top three finalists for the HRMA Human Resources Professional of the Year. Her areas of expertise include revolutionary corporate wellness programs, leadership development facilitation, culture strategy and coaching. She also leads several women's group coaching tribes.

In 2012 Diane launched her blog. She blogs about leadership, love and balance. Diane lives in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada where she is also a dance and hockey mom, as well as an active volunteer in her community.

Design Your Amazing Life!

Is work-life balance bogus? When it comes to increasing balance we are often left wondering where to begin. Diane will outline why we are still searching. She then shifts your thinking with her Relationship Balance Model™ and 6 Step Life Design Process that will leave audience members with the tools, confidence and commitment to consciously create the life they are longing to live.

You will leave this keynote with an understanding of:

- Why work/life balance is such an elusive concept
- 3 obstacles that are preventing you from achieving balance
- Your definition for an AMAZING Life
- A new model to consciously create balance
- A 6 step framework to simply Design your Life
- A fresh empowered perspective to begin meaningful positive change
- Permission to step up and be the CEO of Your AMAZING Life!

Authenticity is the New Black!

When you are an exceptional leader, people will follow you anywhere. Exceptional leaders automatically gain trust and buy in because they are authentic. Understanding and playing to your Authentic Super Powers is the ultimate edge in gaining trust and in turn increasing your results as a leader. In this topic Diane discusses the importance of being an authentic leader and impact on the bottom line results.

Become a Change Leader

The only thing constant in life is change. Understanding how people move through change enables leaders to proactively guide and support their teams, moving them through the change more efficiently and effectively. In this topic Diane shares the emotional impact of change as illustrated in the change curve and then moves the audience from change managers to change leaders by discussing effective action steps to lead people through change.

Diane also customizes her messages to meet organizations or events specific themes or needs. Contact her today to discuss your options.
